

Alcumus North America Announces Full Business Solution to Safety Industry

TORONTO, ON, January 27, 2021 – Alcumus North America is announcing the re-brand of its entire suite of products: eCompliance™, Field iD™, and ContractorCheck™ to be unified under the Alcumus name. The Alcumus team is building a global brand to better serve the safety industry with a portfolio of technology-led risk management solutions to keep workforces safe and in turn, bring more people home safely to their families and loved ones.

The re-brand also launches a new corporate vision and mission for Alcumus. The vision focuses on creating better workplaces to keep people safe, reducing risks, and simplifying processes through expert teams and technology.

The new mission is to create great relationships with customers to understand their needs and support them to build strong, resilient businesses, while delivering the service and technology which helps them create safe and effective workplaces.

More specifically, the North American team has set a goal to: Help our customers create safer workplaces that protect 5 million workers from workplace incidents by 2025.

“All of Alcumus’ solutions come together and provide our customers with a powerful suite of safety products that deliver positive safety outcomes,” says Tyler Davey, CEO, Alcumus North America. “We have a team who is executing at the highest level with a singular focus on creating better workplaces that keep people safe, reduce risks, and simplify processes. I am thrilled with our growth, and look forward to the new solutions we are launching. These solutions and features will enhance our reporting systems to be faster and more reliable, provide additional assets to help track safety activities, and, ultimately, save lives. We are embarking on a safety revolution, and look forward to working with you on this journey.”

“Across Alcumus we all share the same vision and mission, working as one team to create better workplaces and keep people safe,” says Alyn Franklin, CEO, Alcumus. “Building a strong identity helps us to support our clients even more with our expertise and solutions and make Alcumus the success it is. With a growing portfolio of products in North America and the UK, I’m excited to continue our growth and achieve great things together.”

The Alcumus team looks forward to partnering with businesses to keep their workplaces safe in 2021 and beyond.
